

When we are honest and truthful with people, we can have a positive impact and others and the situations we are in.

How does it feel to be lied to?

How does it make you feel to be let down by someone?

If someone had lied to you, would you trust them?

Watch the story of the 'Boy who cried Wolf'. Write or draw how you think the story would end, if the boy had told the truth?

What would you do if ... you are playing with a ball in playground and you teacher asks you to move away from the window. You don't, and you kick the football which breaks the window. Your teacher asks what happened. What do you say?

How can you show that you are trustworthy?
